The presentation set out the background to the efficiency programme; the objectives around income and charges; the Council's gross income, of which fees and charges contributed £7,341,790 in 2023/24; the charging structure which included details of charging policies and their objectives; and next steps which includes continuing to work with service areas to ensure income charges are appropriate and to review the costs of providing chargeable services.

Discussion ensued around efficiencies within council companies, which can be generated through their ability to trade, as well as on-going savings through reduced pension liabilities. Reference was made to potential commercial opportunities for AES in the light of the revised waste and recycling strategy. It was commented that it would be helpful if Parish Councils were able to have more direct contact with AES to obtain quotations for the delivery of works.

Regarding public toilets, alternative provision may need to be examined, including the use of automated units which may incur a charge. Consideration may also be given to a trial of charges to implement improvements or to deter vandalism which would be examined on a case by case basis.
